It is with great joy and excitement I introduce Kevin Cilano to the local/core community this weekend. Kevin comes to us with a wealth of experiences that will fit with our mission and vision here at the Newman Catholic Community @ RIT. I am very happy to welcome him to our family and the RIT community.

Now that Kevin is on board, one of the things I will be giving some attention to is developing a Newman Advisory Board. This group of alumni and friends of Newman @ RIT will offer support and experience to Newman, namely addressing the issue of creating a vision of sustainable growth for Newman. It is my hope and dream to not only grow the Newman Catholic Community into an exciting and energetic home away from home for students, but to also look ahead to the future. We need to make sure that Newman is sustainable for generations to come. I will be talking about this in the weeks and months ahead and I would love to hear your thoughts and ideas about the Newman Advisory Board as well as continued growth and sustainability for Newman.

On a personal note, I am enjoying these last days with my son who will be leaving August 7 for a year of service in the Jesuit Volunteer Corps. Ryan will be going to the Colville Indian Reservation and living in Omak, Washington. Fun fact: I was a Jesuit Volunteer after college (1984-1986), serving on the Flathead Indian Reservation in Western Montana. I spent a weekend on the Colville Reservation as a JV, participating on a team of women offering a Cursillo for Native American women.

Enjoy these (wet) days of summer. Peace and good, Alice
