RIT NATION

The Milkshake Mass was especially touching this past Wednesday evening. Because November is a month we traditionally remember all those who have died, we made our Milkshake Mass a Mass of Remembrance. At the time of the intercessions, we thanked God for something in our lives and we also brought to mind those who have loved us and are now with God. What I did not anticipate was not only were names of those we loved called out, but many told short stories of why these people were important. It was unexpected and delightful. As the gifts were carried to the altar, so too were all those who were brought to mind-through story and memory.

As we prepare for Thanksgiving, many will leave campus to be with family and friends. I invite each of us to take some time in the next week to remember those who might not be with us at the Thanksgiving table. Allow yourself to remember the love and lessons these people have taught you and others. And give thanks -for them, for each of us and for the hope and goodness each have shared with others.

And, about those stories! Agape Latte is all about stories. Thursday evening, November 30th (the Thursday after Thanksgiving Break - Hamad Ghazle is going to share his story with us at Agape Latte. Hamad's story includes leaving Lebanon after his parents died in that country's civil war. It is a story of resilience and determination, of choosing to live life fully. Come for desserts and inspiration. Agape Latte will be in the Fireside Lounge from 8 - 9 pm on Thursday, November 30.

Safe travels. Know that we are here for you.
Peace and good,
Alice
