RIT NATION

Happy second week of Advent! Last week I wrote about Advent as a time to prepare for Christ's coming. We do the letting and God does the coming. I'd encourage each of us to give this a bit of attention in the midst of projects and finals, work and Christmas shopping.

I discovered a few great on line resources you might find helpful as you listen to the ways God might be speaking to you this Advent season. Here is my short list...I have tried to include a bit of variety, as each of us finds different things helpful as we pray and try to listen and see the ways God might be speaking to us.

IgnatianSpirituality.com - They have put together a series called Arts & Faith: Advent for each week of Advent and then a prayer exercise for the season of Christmas.

DynamicCatholic.com - Dynamic Catholic has a wide variety of resources available throughout the year. Their Advent program can be found on their website under: Best Advent Ever. Each day for the season of Advent, they offer a 3-4 minute video that speaks about real issues that many of us face each day.

Faith.nd.edu - The University of Notre Dame has put together an interesting Advent series. They asked members of the Notre Dame family to speak about a place on campus that is sacred to them, where they have encountered God. You can sign up for this daily advent journey called the Chapels of Notre Dame by texting 51555. FaithND also has a daily gospel reflection that comes to your email by putting faithnd sign up in the google machine!

Whatever you choose to do as a daily practice during the season of Advent and Christmas, remember that Advent is about preparing for Christ's coming...we do the letting and God does the coming. Letting God in is an active choice. We need to be intentional about opening our heart and mind to the ways God speaks.

Have a good weekend. Know that we are here for you as you make your way through finals and final projects. Safe travels home and know that you are in my thoughts and prayers.

Peace and good, Alice
