Welcome back! It's not too early to think about Spring Break '18—
St Francis Inn Service Learning
Retreat! Think about it!

RIT NATION

Greetings Everyone,

Welcome back! It is always a joy to have the campus fill up after the winter break. I hope your time away was both restful and fun. It won't be long before all are busy with projects, assignments and activities! Sometimes, our business can cause us to retreat into the "RIT Bubble". It is easy to become disconnected and blind to all that is around us and the needs of others. This past week our country remembered Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.—a man who dedicated his life to offering hope to those who had no voice, equality and an end to discrimination. I wish I could say as a country we are farther along than we are. There is much work for us to do .

This MLK quote is located on campus by the bus stop behind the Wallace Library. Each one of us has the choice each day to offer the world light, or darkness. It's not too late to begin again with a resolution to be a beacon of hope and light for those we encounter each day.

Newman offers many opportunities each week to be light and hope in our world. Consider volunteering once a week at one of the local middle schools, offering tutoring or homework help. Bethany House also needs us. We serve dinner twice a month to women and their children who live at Bethany while they are in transition. When we sit down with others, sharing food and conversation, we suddenly offer a new perspective and possibly hope to women who might believe a college education is not theirs to have in this lifetime. And, over spring break we will travel to the St. Francis Inn, a soup kitchen to serve 350-400 meals each day. The Inn cares for the poorest and most broken of our world well. I always learn much while I am there.

Peace and good, Alice MN
